Formal Ribbon-cutting Ceremony

The AP Studio Art Exhibit represents a selection of some of the finest artwork created by students who submitted portfolios for the AP Studio Art Exam in May 2011. The pieces were chosen from over 40,000 portfolios after the portfolio scoring, which is conducted by a group of high school and college art educators with extensive experience in the AP studio art program. Each work was selected because it exemplifies the extremely high level of rigor, commitment and accomplishment that AP studio art students can achieve. The exhibit is produced each year by the AP program as part of a celebration of AP student work and it honors outstanding AP studio art students. The exhibit also serves to inform students, teachers, parents and members of the art education community about opportunities available through participation in the AP studio art program and the diverse subjects, styles, media, techniques and expressions available to AP students.

The AP Studio Art Exhibit is shown at different locations around the United States throughout the year. This year the exhibit premiered at the AP Annual Conference in San Francisco in July. It was displayed at the Brodsky Gallery of the Chauncey Conference Center on the campus of the Educational Testing Service in Princeton, N.J., in August 2011; the Lois Cowles Harrison Center for the Visual and Performing Arts in Lakeland, Fla., in September 2011; the College Board National Forum in New York City in October 2011; the Norris Cultural Arts Center in St. Charles, Ill., in November 2011; the gallery of Booker T. Washington High School for the Performing and Visual Arts in Dallas, Texas, in January 2012; and the National Art Education Association conference in New York City in March 2012; and it will be displayed at the Perpich Center for Arts Education in Golden Valley, Minn., in May 2012, and at the gallery of Savannah College of Art and Design in Atlanta, Ga., in June 2012.

The U.S. Department of Education's Student Art Exhibit Program, now in its ninth year under the direction of the Office of Communications and Outreach and the Office of Innovation and Improvement, features visual art created by students in U.S. and international schools. The program provides students and teachers an opportunity to display creative work from the classroom in a highly public place that honors their work as an effective path to learning and knowledge for all. The works also provide Department employees and visitors with both a beautiful environment and the means to be in touch with the Department's principal customers—students.

The program features two exhibits at all times throughout the year: The winners of the Scholastic Art & Writing Awards are exhibited for a year beginning every August; and another exhibit, rotated every two to three months, accommodates the many educators who want to exhibit their students' work. Exhibits are currently booked through 2015. To schedule a visit to the exhibits contact Nicole Carinci at nicole.carinci@ed.gov or at 202-453-5585, and to learn more about the exhibiting opportunity contact Jackye Zimmermann at jacquelyn.zimmermann@ed.gov or at 202-401-0762.
